Cultures on display; features many nations

Are you interested in other cultures? Do you study a country which has fascinated you?

Cultures On Display is a new program at BYU designed to provide information.

Last night in room 321 of the Wilkinson Center an overflow audience came to learn more about the culture of Peru.

In depth discussions were presented by natives and also by representatives from the Cultures On Display program. The program included information on Norway's geography, history and architecture, its political background, the social life, the technology and monetary system, legends, songs and literature.

According to American Chumtipa, director of publicity for Cultural Display, the program has been encouraged by the LDS Church as an aid to Relief Society Cultural Refinement lessons.

Native students are invited by the Cultures Display officers to show others what their country really is like. "The purpose of the program is to provide international students to the public accounting firm, Dietz Haskins and Sells.

Miss Chumtipa said, "We are trying to serve the community in our own way."

IPA student lauded

By ARLO ATKIN
Universe Staff Writer

A student in BYU's Institute of Professional Accounting (IPA) has been awarded one of 22 Arthur H. Carter Scholarships.

Laura Naneita Welburn, a fifth year IPA student from Las Vegas, Nev., received $2,500 from the Arthur H. Carter Scholarship Fund because of her "good character and preminant leadership in the field of accounting."

The nationwide scholarship was set up in Mrs. Arthur H. Carter's will in honor of her late husband, a former managing partner of the public accounting firm, Dietz Haskins and Sells.

The scholarship committee allows one percent of the graduating class of each institution to apply for the award. BYU sent three applications for approval.

The American Accounting Association and the Scholarship Committee reviews the applications and makes a recommendation to the Trustees of the Carter Scholarship Fund. Twenty-two students are selected in the nation each year to receive the award.

Miss Welburn is the oldest in her family and has one sister and three brothers. Her parents are Wayne and Frida Welburn. She graduated from high school at the age of 16 and started at BYU as a freshman the same year with a Trustee Scholarship.

She was an outstanding student her first four years at BYU. When she last year she was awarded the IPA award and started at BYU as a freshman the same year with a Trustee Scholarship when she was awarded the Carter Scholarship.

According to Dr. Fred Skousen, IPA director, this is the fourth year in a row a BYU student has won this national award. Norm Nennow won it in 1976 and 1977. In 1978 Stan Duffin and Scott Peterson both received a Carter Scholarship.

Skousen said that the Arthur Carter Scholarship is the most prestigious Accounting Award for an undergraduate accounting student to receive.

First Speakeasy scheduled

ASBYU President David Litterer and Executive Vice President Kim Cox will put into action one of their campaign promises Thursday by beginning their Stepdown Lounge President's Speakeasy at 10 a.m.

The Speakeasy is designed to put students more in touch with their representatives, Litterer said. He added that it was "a specific time when we can meet to hear suggestions and ideas on how we can more effectively represent their interests."

Litterer and Cox plan to stand on the outer edge of the Stepdown Lounge, near the Cougarrest, where students can readily stop and offer comments and suggestions. It will be on a one to one basis, without microphones. "We don't want to be out of touch with the students," Cox said. "We want to know what's in their minds and meet with them on a personal level."

The Speakeasy is especially designed to meet the needs of those students who find the fourth floor offices of ASBYU too far away or inaccessible to reach. "Students that don't feel they have the time to come to the fourth floor will find us right there on their way to class," Litterer said.

For at least the first few meetings, the Speakeasy will not have a third floor. Students are encouraged to just stop by and express any feelings or ideas. "Right now we want to familiarize ourselves with students," Cox said. "Later in the year we'd like to have specific topics."

Litterer and Cox are concerned about student involvement. "The response has been really exciting so far. My secretary has been doing almost nothing but process applications for people wanting to work in student government," Cox said.

"We always need good people. One of the greatest aspects of ASBYU is the leadership abilities it develops." Traditionally the athletics and social offices receive more applications for workers and receive more recognition. "They're excellent offices," Cox said. "But the others can be just as rewarding."

"We'd like to see more people involved in the other offices in student government too. In order to involve more people beyond those that submit applications to work in student government, Litterer and Cox hope to have a good turn-out at the Speakeasy Thursday.

"We'd like to talk to as many people as we can," said Litterer. "We want the students to know they're concerned about their needs."

Club Week booths attracting students

By ANITA PENNINGTON
Universe Staff Writer

Student response to Club Week, which started Tuesday, has been favorable, said ASBYU Organizations Office Vice President, Kelynn Culmore. "I am excited," he said.

"There are a lot of kids signing up." Club members manning the booths in the Wilkinson Center, Stepdown Lounge and West Patio said student reactions have been very good. Donna Hendrix, a third year student from El Centro, Calif., stated several varied responses students made while passing the Baptist Student Union Booth.

"A few people walked by with a sour look on their face, like they had just tasted a lemon or something. The usual reaction is for people to walk by, glance at us and mumble 'ah' as if they didn't know that we had an organization," she said.

Occasionally, said Miss Hendrix, people will come and ask questions. "Some just want to know why we came to BYU, some are interested in what we do and others are really enthusiastic about our organization. Most of them are non-Mormon."

"The main question we get though, is why we come here to BYU," said Wayne Kitchen, sophomore majoring in International Relations from Richmond, Va. "We just explain that we feel BYU is a good academic school and we hold the same high moral standards stated in the BYU Code of Honor."

Certain booths, such as the Wildlife Society booth, seem to draw students from them. Two wire cages containing different kinds of wildlife attract curious students to the booth.

A Range Science major, Doug Barnum, from Dubois, Ind., said, "The animals are responsible for the initial attraction to our booth, but a lot of students have been asking questions."

Monthly lectures planned

The monthly "Flea Market of Ideas" lecture series, sponsored by the BYU Honors Program and ASBYU Academics Office is scheduled Thursday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in 321 ELWC.

The lectures give students exposure to various teachers on campus. The lectures are free and the public is invited to attend any or all of them.

A different theme is chosen each month for the series. September's theme is "Our Reach Towards Excellence In Learning: Thoughts On Wildlife is a current public issue and people are starting to care."

Mixed reactions were reported by girls working in the Auno Club Booth. The Auno Club is a women's organization responsible for service to athletics.

"One of the most common ones is concerning what the club is all about and what we do," said Candy Kay, a sophomore majoring in Public Policy from Honolulu, Hawaii. "Lots of girls have never heard of our organization." Some guys who have heard about the club, she said, react negatively.

"We got a few bad reactions," said Miss Kay. "Some girls think that the only purpose of the club is for having parties with guys. They're wrong."

According to Valerie Bashin, a junior from Flemington, N.J. majoring in Educational Psychology, Club Week is a good opportunity to learn what the clubs are about. "It's a good way to get everyone out to see the clubs and a chance to meet more people. And the more friends you make, the more fun you have."

Students who want to check out the various clubs may do so today and Thursday in the Stepdown Lounge and the West Patio of the Wilkinson Center. According to Larry Whipple, a freshman from Provo, most of the clubs are not requiring a definite commitment to join. "Most of the clubs are just signing up for orientation meetings where interested students can come and find out what the clubs are all about."

BYU Education At The Beginning Of A New School Year.

Participating in this lecture series will be Gary L. Browning, Vernon J. Tipton and Eugene England. Arthur Henry King and Claurance C. Riddle will be the afternoon speakers. All those in attendance are invited to participate in the open forum and panel discussion from 2:30 p.m. to 4 p.m.

For those interested, many professors will be opening their homes for post-lecture, early evening gatherings. The time and place of these gatherings will be announced at the lectures.

How to get the most from the most popular car in the world

As a student, probably your biggest single task is information processing. You spend more time absorbing, analyzing, and memorizing facts than anything else. And most of that information is in the form of printed words.

Think what you could accomplish if you had your own personal computer that could digest all your reading almost as fast as you can turn pages. The time and efficiency you'd gain could make a big change for the better in your life right now.

Of course, you already have such a device — it's called a brain. But you're probably not using even a tenth of its capacity. Because just as a computer is only as good as its programs, your brain is as powerful as the way you use it. And when it comes to reading, most of us still stand with the painfully slow methods we learned in grade school. Methods that are so inefficient that your brain actually gets bored and distracted before words (which is why you probably find it hard to concentrate when you're studying).

Evelyn Wood would like you to spend an hour with us to discover some of the miraculous things your brain can do with the proper training. In a single hour, 1 hour demonstration, you'll find out why most people are such poor readers, and how our new RD2 system can increase your reading speed of least 300% with better concentration and retention. As part of the bargain, we'll show you some new reading techniques designed to increase your speed immediately with good comprehension — order just this one per demonstration.

Evelyn Wood RD2 can open the door to big gains for you, better grades, more leisure time, and a whole new positive outlook on studying.

And it will only cost you an hour of "computer time" to find out how

Audience raves over sketches

By BETH WOODBURY
Universe Guest Reviewer
and MICHAEL McDONALD

Take six stools of odd size and a grand piano, six talented singers and a few great musical numbers, throw in a quartet or two for background and you have the best live arts event at BYU this weekend.

The Music Theater Sketches, presented free of charge, was originally planned for only three nights. Audience response was so favorable that the program will be repeated Friday at 8 p.m. Our advice is to get there very early, as seats will be scarce then and back.

The program features six singers performing scenes from Mozart's "Così fan tutti" and selections from Stephen Sondheim and Leonard Bernstein musicals. The singers are William Schuman, Martin Wright, Christopher Schuman, Susan Dee Alexander, Lynette D. Low and Eliza Amannara Dragotto. Each one of the artists performed very well in ensemble with the others.

It seems such a shame that the only place opera is performed is in the huge droling Concert Hall or in the Gate Music Theater, which has all the warmth of a warehouse. The Arena lost a great deal of intimacy to the performance. This intimacy allowed the performers to act as well as sing in the true music theater style.

The opera itself was sung in the original Italian, which all but scared Michael away. Fortunately, the acting was so clear as to what was being sung and the voices so light and refreshing, the language barrier was dissolved.

The opera deals with the rise of two young men who, at the advice of their friends, decide to test the wisdom of their friends by pretending to go to war, but in reality return and woo them in disguise, with comical results.

Whoever picked the music for this program and arranged the order of the numbers was brilliant. The music stretches cover a wide range of moods and messages. From the lively of "Così fan tutti" to the quiet strength of Bernstein's "Make Our Garden Grow," and nearly full of their chains as Susan Alexander delivered "Glitter and Be Gay" from the top of the piano. Such songs as "I Remember," "What a Month" and "Too Many Mornings" received especially enthusiastic applause, and the total emotional impact brought the audience to their feet.

The show was well directed, well staged and well performed. It is rumored that if the audiences are enthusiastic enough the show may be extended, but don't plan on it. Camp out if you must—but don't miss it!

Children's piano class to start

A piano class for 7 and 8 year old children with no previous training is being offered on a first-come, first-served basis by the BYU music department.

The class will be offered as part of the department's piano pedagogy program and will begin Oct. 1. The youngsters will be instructed by any one of the following: Dr. Paul C. Polle, piano faculty chairman.

Meeting once a week on Thursday afternoons from 4 to 5 p.m., the class will be held in room C-353, HPAC, and will continue through April, Polle said.

During the first half of the class, from Oct. 4 through Dec. 15, students will meet as a group once a week. Beginning in January, private lessons will be offered in addition to the group lessons.

Parents interested in enrolling their children should contact Polle or Scott Gentry at 374-1211, ext. 3687, for further information.

Professors in Trilogy tonight

Three of the finest performers in Utah headline the fall semester opening feature of the BYU Alumni College. Held Nibley, Gene Larson, and Ray Arhin star in a Trilogy Concert tonight at 8 in the BYU Alumni House.

Nibley, popular pianist-in-residence at BYU, is best known to students for his stoppage performance at last year's April Fools' concert. Before his residence at BYU, he was official pianist with the world renowned Utah Symphony.

Gene Larson is a Swedish baritone with extensive experience in opera and on the concert stage. With leading roles in classics such as "Madame Butterfly,"

"La Traviata," "Pagliacci" and "Scario" to his credit, he now performs with the Utah Opera Company.

Ray Arhin is a world famous operatic singer and a member of the BYU faculty. His international performances have taken him throughout Europe, with both the Geneva Opera Company and, as a leading tenor, with the Bonn Opera Company. He has performed with the American National Opera Company and has studied throughout Europe and the U.S.

The Trilogy Concert is the first of 19 Wednesday evening programs that make up this year's BYU Alumni College series. Registration can be handled through the mail or at the Alumni House before the Trilogy Concert. A season pass for the 19-part series is $20. Tickets at the door for individual concerts are $5.00 for adults and $1.00 for students.

The Alumni College is informal and non-credit. It is sponsored for the benefit of alumni, parents, friends and students of BYU by the BYU Alumni Association and the Division of Continuing Education.

Trojans remain No. 1

Southern California, Alabama, Oklahoma and Texas held onto the top four places in The Associated Press' first regular-season college football poll today, while Stanford, Texas A&M and Arizona State were casualties of the year's first upsets.

Southern Cal., a 21-7 winner over Texas Tech in its opening game, received 47 first-place votes and 1,222 total points from a nationwide panel of 50 sports writers and broadcasters.

However, second-ranked Alabama closed the gap from the preseason poll. The Crimson Tide, which opened by thrashing Georgia Tech, 30-6, received 14 first-place ballots and 1,172 points. The margin of difference in the preseason poll was 1,242-1,141.

Neither Oklahoma nor Texas has played yet. The Sooners received two first-place votes and 1,068 points, while the other No. 1 ballot went to Texas, which accumulated 862 points.

Penn State, fifth in the preseason poll, also was tied and slipped to seventh place behind Purdue and Michigan, which posted impressive victories. Purdue trounced Wisconsin, 41-20, and climbed from sixth to fifth with 931 points, while Michigan swamped Northwestern, 42-7, and jumped from seventh to sixth with 896 points.

Then came Penn State with 823 points, idle Nebraska with 742 and idle Notre Dame with 644. Michigan State defeated Illinois, 35-16, and held onto 10th place with 594 points.

The three newcomers to the Top 20 are Ohio State, North Carolina State and Southern Methodist. Ohio State whipped Syracuse, 31-8. N.C. State trimmed East Carolina, 34-7, and SMU downed Rice, 35-17.

Kama honored

DENVER (AP) — Gary Kama, a senior linebacker who led the Brigham Young defense in an 18-17 win over 14th-ranked Texas A&M, Tuesday, was named Western Athletic Conference defensive player of the week.

New Mexico quarterback Brad Wright, who had a hand in four touchdowns in the Lobos' 35-16 victory Saturday over Oregon State, was named WAC offensive player of the week.

Kama, a 5-foot-11, 225-pound native of Honolulu, made nine unassisted tackles in the Cougar win over Texas A&M.

He also was credited with nine assists on tackles. Three of the tackles Kama was involved in were he believed Aggie running back Curtis Dickey and caused a fumble that BYU recovered in its own end zone.

Length disputed in speed record

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Gary Gabelich, holder of the land speed record over the world since 1976, has protested the shorter course method used by Stan Barrett in his claimed record breaking run of Sunday.

Barrett steered his Buellmeister Rocket to a top speed of 439.63 mph Saturday. This exceeded the land speed record of 622.407 mph two-way average set by Gabelich in 1976. But Gabelich made his record over a one-mile course, 10 times the distance used in Barrett's run, which was timed over just 0.24 of a mile, which is .01 of a mile.

TRYOUTS FOR BYU FOLK DANCERS

Great possibilities for fun and travel. This year we will be taking tours to the North West and the West Coast. A tour to Europe is on tap for the coming Summer. Come and be a part of the fun and excitement this year.
